TEXT MESSAGING Information

Text Messaging is an important communications tool used so our clinicians can stay informed about work opportunities & related issues. CTS may send text messages that alert you to available shifts, bonuses, contracts, expired credentials and other things

We try to limit these text messages to one per day, but on occasion, more than one may be sent and sometimes duplicates of the same message are sent accidentally. Standard text messaging rates apply.

You will be given the ability to "opt out" of these messages by texting STOP to 20964 after you receive a message; however, employees who choose this option are missing great employment opportunities which may affect their eligibility for benefits or for unemployment.

We think you'll agree that Text Messaging is a quick, non-intrusive way to communicate and to put you to work!

I am happy to participate because Text Messaging will keep me informed about work.
